

ABSTRACT

A simulation system and A method for computer-implemented simulation and verification of a control system under development are provided, the simulation system having a 5 host-target architecture. An operating system of the target representing at least a part of the control system is reconfigured by the host via a application programming interface dedicated to the operating system of the target.